Episcopal Church Clean Up

If you are interested in helping clean up after Hurricane Ian, there is an opportunity this Saturday. We're meeting at St John's, 7771 Stringfellow Rd St James City, at 9:30 am. We will break into smaller work teams from there and head to seven different houses to do debris removal.

Bring:

- work gloves
- Long sleeves are recommended but not necessary
- We have face masks but if someone has one they prefer they should bring it with them.
- Refillable Water bottles and extra water.

Lunch is provided by a prepaid local food truck who will be providing lunch for our work team and 150 residents. We will be off the island by 4 pm.

Future projects:

St Edmunds in Arcadia needs furniture moved out of their building.

Beacon of Hope on Pine Island is starving for volunteers.

Mary Ryan is the contact there: mary.ryan.1777@gmail.com

Updated Hurricane Information from

On Thursday, October 27, Diocesan CFO Mike Booher and staff from DCMC Partners toured several churches affected by the storm during which he distributed a round of relief checks. Each of the 20 churches affected by the hurricane have been mailed relief checks to assist with their insurance deductibles.

On Tuesday, November 1, Diocesan staff hosted an online information session with affected churches and DCMC Partners to discuss the first steps in recovery under the FEMA Public Assistance Program. For more information about this program, please contact Director of Congregation Support, John Edgar, at jedgar@episcopalswfl.org.

To date, the diocese has distributed almost $6,000 in supermarket gift cards to congregations in the area impacted by Hurricane Ian. These resources will help churches respond to the humanitarian needs in the communities that they serve.

The diocese continues to update its guide of programs to assist individuals in recovering from Hurricane Ian. New resources will be added as they become available. Parishioners are also encouraged to visit www.floridadisaster.org for regular updates about recovery efforts.

PRAYERS

Centering Prayer

Centering Prayer invites you to pray with them, every day, at 8 am, wherever you are. When you enter into prayer at 8 am (Eastern), you will know that others are praying at the same time.

We Pray for our People

Hear the prayers of all who cry out to you for help. Especially we pray for the needs of: Downs IV, Holden, Brian, Tyler, Barbara, Anne and new-born David Jude. Grant healing and recovery for Nancy (Joan Sherry's sister), Terry, Georgianna, Peg, Annette, Lisa, Michael, Victoria and Scott. Give peace and strength for those going through cancer treatments, especially Jane, Bill, Downs III, Victoria, Alex, Connie and Douglas. Visit and comfort all who are under the care of skilled nursing, especially Timothy, Barbara, Kim and Mary Ann. Be near to all who are in hospice care.

For the repose of the soul of Jane Dorin

For the repose of the soul of Jane Perlin.
May light perpetual shine on her.

Men's and Women's Discussion Groups

Friendship is the topic for next week. The author of the article, America the Friendless, believes that friendship is one of the most important aspects of a free society; and it's fun!

The Church plays a role in this. Speaking of, this next week, we have a fun way to connect with one another. The Fall Fling is on Wednesday starting at 4:30 pm. Come by for some BBQ and friendship. Another way to make friends is through attending a discussion group. :-)

For those in person, I will have the coffee ready. For those on line, here is the link: <https://zoom.us/j/5955701807>

REFLECTION

Jane

[I covered this Reflection with Jane's three children. They gave me permission to share.]

I am still in shock at the passing of my friend, and our dear parishioner, Jane Perin. She was here just three weeks ago ushering and doing-all-that-Jane-does. One of the things Jane did was to assure me that all was going to be just fine – from organizing the kitchen, to Coffee Hour, to one of the many events that she catered, to every Sunday she ushered, she'd make sure I was looking her in the eye and she'd say, "Everything is going to be just fine."

My last correspondence with her was on Tuesday, October 25th. Jane developed a terrible cough so she preferred to email instead of talking on the phone. Here is what she wrote:

I am still in the hospital and probably not going home – to my house – until Thursday [Oct 27]. Don't think I have ever seen so many doctors over a period of five days and the day isn't over!

They have taken the port out which had become infected causing a staph infection in my blood. There is fluid around the lungs and heart so the recovery is not going to be quick. I have lots of exercises to do which will help and I'm a fighter.

Hugs,

Jane

The port she referred to was used to put heavy duty chemotherapy directly into her system to battle the cancer which had returned. It was an eight-hour drip; some of that time she used chatting with me. The staph infection was MRSA.

I called her on Thursday and she was not home. Thursday evening her body system crashed and her lungs could no longer keep her alive. The decision was made to keep her comfortable. Friday morning, I was at her side in the hospital. With her three children standing around her bed, we offered her last rites.

Sunday morning, before the 10 a.m. service, Elizabeth, her daughter, told me Jane was still alive. I told her, and then the congregation, the following: It is my experience that people who are near death sometimes see loved ones who have passed before them in the room. I have experience with two people who were able to leave their body for a while and then return back for a short time. It seems as if death is a liminal time where the separation – the veil – is so thin that passing back and forth becomes possible. I believe Jane is learning how to live on the other side. I also believe that she wanted to see if we could breathe as a church without her.

I felt her presence on Sunday at the beginning of the service. I thought that we should do something as a congregation that gave her permission to go. Then, after the prayers of the people, I said, "I'd like to offer a prayer for Jane," and then I prayed the following short prayer.

Into your hands, O merciful Savior, we commend your servant Jane. Acknowledge, we humbly beseech you, a sheep of your own fold, a lamb of your own flock, a sinner of your own redeeming. Receive her into the arms of your mercy into the blessed rest of everlasting peace and into arms of your mercy, into the blessed rest of everlasting peace, and into the glorious company of the saints in light.

Shortly after that, my phone vibrated. It was Elizabeth telling me that Jane had just passed. I believe that we had given her the permission she was looking for.

Jane was one of the first to welcome me and my family to All Angels. Her presence, her work, her caring was a constant for me and for the whole parish. To say that she will be missed is a massive understatement. At the same time, I recognize, I believe, that she is home.

As her children were saying goodbye to her, one of them said, "Mom, I know there are things in heaven just waiting for you to organize." I miss her. But, I know heaven is now a more organized place. And, just like she would remind me before service, I also know that everything is going to be just fine.
